

New Book Helps South Carolina Car Accident Victims

By Shelly M. Leeke

Dated: Oct 20, 2009

Charleston, SC– Personal injury attorney Shelly Leeke has authored "The South Carolina Accident Book: Avoid the Mistakes That Can Wreck Your Injury Case." The book is intended to help accident victims who have been injured in South Carolina.

The book covers a wide array of accident claims topics such as, "What is a Personal Injury or Accident Case?", "How Much is a Personal Injury Case Worth?", and "Do you really need an attorney?" The book also discusses, in depth, the steps to take after an accident, how not to wreck your injury case, medical treatment considerations, and the legal process involved in resolving a personal injury claim. The book includes fifteen chapters spanning some 75 pages.

"I've encountered many situations where a person injured in an accident was taken advantage of by the insurance company. Accident victims have questions that need answers immediately, before they hire an attorney or speak with an insurance adjustor. This book addresses accident victims' needs and answers their questions" said Leeke.

Leeke says that she also wrote the book to provide accident victims with accurate information about insurance claims and the legal process. The book addresses common myths associated with accident claims and it reveals the tactics used by the insurance companies to devalue accident claims.

The book has been published by Word Association Press and is available for $16.95 at Amazon.com. As a public service, and for a limited time only, accident victims in South Carolina will receive a free copy of the book. Go to TheSouthCarolinaAccidentBook.com
